

Lindsay Dietrich Wolf

Lindsay completed her undergraduate work in Special Education at Wittenburg University in Springfield, Ohio. She continued her education with a Masters degree from Indiana University Purdue University, Fort Wayne, in Educational Leadership. She is currently pursuing her doctorate in Special Education and completing the director of Exceptional Needs program at Ball State University.

Lindsay began her teaching career at Norwell High School as a Mild Disabilities teacher and then moved to Homestead High School where she is serving as the Chairperson of Special Education Department. Lindsay has been an active and integral member of the Northeast Transition Cadre since its inception. She is a participating member of the IEP Resource Center Behavior Workgroup. She has authored and co-authored many works and presents frequently in Fort Wayne and around the state. Lindsay was recommended for the ICASE Presidential Scholarship by Parker Grider, Principal of Homestead High School and Roxanne May, Director of Special Education for Southwest Allen County Schools. Congratulations to Lindsay for receiving one of the 2017 Presidential Scholarships